

The arrival of the Royal Astronomer.

on the Atlantic. Adjoining Balboa is the Panamanian metropolis of Panama, and adjoining Cristobal is Colon.

Between Balboa and Cristobal and lying along the Canal is the U. S. railroad, but its interest to most of the visitors was only casual, because one may see a railroad nearly any place in the United States anytime, but there are sights on the Panama side of the Canal Zone—Panama line which are not to be seen every day in the year.

For five days the Pacific Fleet sojourned in Panama Bay, and at noon on the 22nd, the whole Fleet weighed anchor and stood out down the Coast of South America.

HEAR, YE, HEAR YE!

It has been brought to His Royal Highness NEPTUNUS REX, through his trusty pollywogs, that the good ship ARKANSAS is about to enter these waters and manned by a crew who have not acknowledged the sovereignty of the Ruler of the Deep, has transgressed on his domains and thereby incurred his royal displeasure:

BE IT KNOWN to all ye Box Car Tourists, Park Statues, Hay Makers and Politicians, that His Most Royal Muchness NEPTUNUS REX, Supreme Ruler of all mermaids, sharks, squibs, crabs, pollywogs, eels and other denizens of the Deep, will, with his Secretary and Royal Court, meet in full session, on board the offending ship ARKANSAS tomorrow.

John R. Jones, Seaman U. S. N., having been reported to us as one of the offenders will present himself at this Court under the penalty of eternal pickling.

Disobey this order under my displeasure. Incarnation in Davy Jones' locker.
