The mission of Combat Systems Department is to develop a team of expert technicians with the highest degree of moral character, personal integrity and constant motivation. To achieve the highest level of equipment readiness and sustainability in order to maintain a "Ready on Arrival" strike group. They provide the ship's warfare fighting abilities from the highest level strike group commanders and staff personnel to Combat Direction Center watch standers. They aim to work together as a team to improve the quality of work, their people and themselves. They believe in conducting themselves with the highest ethical manner in all customer relationships through honesty and a sense of urgency. They exhibit the highest degree of technical excellence, quality and competence in what they have been trained to do. It is their goal through training, sense of duty, honor, courage and commitment to provide the customer the ability to maintain the utmost operational readiness in all theatres. They are committed to positive change and constant improvement.
